OBJECTS OF THE SOCIETY.

It being evident, from a steady decline of a proper celebration of the National holidays of the United States of America, that popular concern in the events and men of the war of the Revolution is gradually declining, and that such lack of interest is attributable, not so much to the lapse of time and the rapidly increasing flood of immigration from foreign countries, as to the neglect on the part of descendants of Revolutionary heroes to perform their duty in keeping before the public mind the memory of the services of their ancestors and of the times in which they lived; therefore, the Society of the Sons of the Revolution has been instituted to perpetuate the memory of the men, who, in the military, naval and civil service of the Colonies and of the Continental Congress, by their acts or counsel, achieved the Independence of the country, and to further the proper celebration of the anniversaries of the birthday of Washington, and of prominent events connected with the war of the Revolution; to collect and secure for preservation the rolls, records and other documents relating to that period; to inspire the members of the Society with the patriotic spirit of their forefathers; and to promote the feeling of friendship among them.

Any male person above the age of twenty-one years, of good character and a descendant of one who, as a military, naval or marine officer, soldier, sailor or marine, in actual service, under the authority of any of the thirteen Colonies or States or of the Continental Congress, and remaining always loyal to such authority, or a descendant of one who signed the Declaration of Independence, or of one who, as a member of the Continental Congress or of the Congress of any of the Colonies or States, or as an official appointed by or under the authority of any such legislative bodies, actually assisted in the establishment of American Independence by services rendered during the war of the Revolution, becoming thereby liable to conviction of treason against the government of Great Britain, but remaining always loyal to the authority of the Colonies or States, shall be eligible to membership in the Society.

Grand son of John Norris, who was born in Virginia on the 4th day of July, 1760, and died in Lewis County, Virginia, on the 12th day of February, 1836.

His services as a soldier in the Virginia Militia during the war of the Revolution are as follows :

Enlisted in February, 1777, as a private in Captain James Scott's Company, and served three months.

Enlisted in March, 1781, as a private in Captain Turner Moorehead's Company, and served two months.

Enlisted in September, 1781, as a Sergeant in Captain Thomas Helms' Company, and served two months.

He participated in the siege of Yorktown, Virginia, and was present at the Surrender of the British Army under Lord Cornwallis.

He was a Pensioner under the Act of Congress of 1832.

[Elected 1895.]

Brown, Samuel Boardman

Great grand son of Thomas Brown, who was born in Prince William County, Virginia, on the 7th day of September, 1760, and died in Preston County, Virginia, in August, 1844.

Thomas Brown enlisted in the Virginia Militia in October, 1780, in Captain John Britt's Company under Col. Wm. Lucas; joined Gen. Green's Army in South Carolina, and was on duty at the Battle of Cowpens, Jan. 17th, 1781.

At date of enlistment he lived in Prince William County, thence moved to Fauquier, and in 1805 to Monongalia, and by Act of Congress of 1832, received a pension for his services.

[Elected 1894.]

Brockunier, Charles Wesley

Great grand-son of Colonel Ebenezer Zane, who was born in Berkeley County, Virginia, on the 7th day of October, 1747, and died in Wheeling, Virginia, on the 19th day of November, 1812.

Participated in the defense of Fort Henry at Wheeling in Ohio County, Virginia, on the 1st day of September, 1777, against a force of Indians and others, estimated at from two hundred to three hundred and eighty-nine warriors, which was the first attempt of the British, and their savage allies against this Western Frontier, after the Revolutionary War began.

He was in command of Fort Henry, at Wheeling, in Ohio County, on September 11th, 1782, when a Company of British Regular Soldiers under Captain Pratt. and two hundred and sixty Indians laid siege to the Fort.

After three days fighting the attack was finally repulsed. This was the last battle in which a British Soldier fired a Gun in the Revolution.

[Elected 1895.]

Brockunier, Samuel Hugh

Great great grand-son of Colonel Ebenezer Zane, who was born in Berkeley County, Virginia, on the 7th day of October, 1747, and died in Wheeling, Virginia, on the 19th day of November, 1812.

Participated in the defense of Fort Henry at Wheeling, in Ohio County, Virginia, on the 1st day of September, 1777, against a force of Indians and others, estimated at from two hundred to three hundred and eighty-nine warriors, which was the first attempt of the British and their savage allies against this Western Frontier after the Revolutionary War began.

He was in command of Fort Henry at Wheeling in Ohio County on September 11th, 1782, when a Company of British Regular Soldiers under Captain Pratt and two hundred and sixty Indians laid siege to the fort.

After three days fighting the attack was finally repulsed. This was the last battle in which a British Soldier fired a gun in the Revolution.

[Elected 1894.]

Daily, John

Grand-son of John Daily, who was born and died in Springfield, Virginia, May 7th, 1830.

The said John Daily was living in Pennsylvania at the beginning of the Revolutionary War, and enlisted in the Virginia Continental line as a private and served until the end of the war.

In recognition of said service there was issued to him on June 25th, 1785, from the General Land Office of the United States, a land warrant No. 3910 for 200 acres of land; also one for 100 acres, No. 2419; both of said warrants have been recovered by his descendants as shown by the records of the Virginia Land Office.

[Elected 1895.]

Edwards, William Seymour

Great grand-son of Timothy Edwards, who was born July 25th, 1738, and died in Massachusetts, October 28th, 1813.

Timothy Edwards was a member of the Committee of Safety for Western Massachusetts, called together and forwarded minute men from Stockbridge, Berkshire County, to Lexington. Appointed member of Continental Congress at Philadelphia with Silas Deane and John Hancock. Member Massachusetts Legislature. Held many civil and semi-military trusts during the Revolution; Commissary General of Massachusetts for forwarding provisions and supplies to New England Armies. Provisioned Gate's

Army, gathering 30 ton of flour at Springfield and giving his entire private fortune for this enterprise.

Also, great grand-son of Edward Antill the Third, who was born in New Jersey in the year 1742, and died in Quebec, Canada, May 21st, 1787.

Served as an Engineer on General Montgomery's staff, 1775, and took part in attack on Quebec when Montgomery was killed; sent by General Wooster as Special Envoy with dispatches to Continental Congress at Philadelphia with account of battle of Quebec.

In 1776 was appointed by Congress Lieutenant Colonel in command of American Troops in Canada with headquarters at Montreal. Received special authority to recruit his command in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland and Delaware.

In February, 1777, he joined army of Gen. Washington in Pennsylvania with all his troops; August, 1777, fought with Gen. Sullivan, at Hanover, N. J., taken prisoner by British while commanding rear Guard of Sullivan's Army, Exchanged Nov. 10, 1780, assigned to command of Regiment at Fish-kill on Hudson, 1781. In 1781 went with his troops to Virginia; joined the French at Yorktown and was present at surrender of Cornwallis. Was an original member of the Order of Cincinnati.

[Elected 1894.]

Gittings, John George

Great grand-son of Return Jonathan Meigs, born in Connecticut, December, 1740. He recruited a Company at the beginning of the War and marched to Cambridge; subsequently accompanying Arnold to Quebec, as Major of the Connecticut line, he assisted Montgomery in the attack on the Citadel, where he was captured December 31st, 1775. After being exchanged in 1776, he raised a regiment and was commissioned its Colonel. For specially daring and successful service performed with his regiment at Sag Harbor on the night of May 22nd, 1777, when he burned a dozen British Ships, destroyed their ware-houses of provisions and captured ninety prisoners without losing a man, Col. Meigs received a vote of thanks, and was presented with a sword by the Continental Congress.

He rendered distinguished service at the Capture of Stony Point under Gen. Wayne, July 15th, 1777, and continued on Active Duty in the Army till the close of the War. He died at Cherokee Agency, Georgia, January 28th, 1823.

[Elected 1895.]

Goff, Nathan

Grand-son of Job Goff, who was born in Kent County, Rhode Island, on the 22nd day of November, 1760, and died in Harrison County, Virginia, on the 8th day of December, 1845.

Job Goff enlisted in 1777, in a Rhode Island Regiment, commanded by Major Isaac Johnson and served for twelve months. His Company being commanded respectively by Captain Galvin and Captain Green.

In 1782 he again enlisted in a New York Regiment commanded by Colonel John Abbott, the length of service in this Regiment not being known.

He was a pensioner under the Act of Congress passed in 1832.

[Transferred from Pennsylvania Society, 1894.]

Hagans, John Marshall

Grand son of Daniel McCollum, born on the 24th day of January, 1754, and died in Preston County, Virginia, on the 12th day of April, 1842.

He was an Ensign in the Second Co., First Battalion, York County, Pennsylvania Associators. Documentary evidence shows that the said Daniel McCollum was connected with the organization named and that his battalion was incorporated with the force known as the "Flying Camp" in the year 1776, and that he participated in the fortunes of that force, as appears by the Revolutionary Archives lodged in the State Library of the State of Pennsylvania at Harrisburg. Was in the battle of Long Island and the surrender of Fort Washington in November following.

[Elected 1894.]

Haymond, Henry

Great grand son of Major William Haymond, of the Virginia Militia, who was born in Maryland, on the 14th day of January, 1740, O. S., and died in Harrison County, Virginia, on the 12th day of November, 1821.

Major Haymond served three years in a Colonial Virginia Regiment, Colonel George Washington being its first Colonel, in the Campaigns west of the Alleghany Mountains against the French and Indians. His discharge, dated at Fort Lewis, Virginia, February 24th, 1762, signed by Lieutenant-Colonel Adam Stephen, states his rank as Sergeant, and that "he has duly served three years and behaved as a good soldier and faithful subject."

He in the year 1773, moved, to the State of Virginia and settled on the Monongahela River in the District of West Augusta.

He was commissioned Captain of the Monongalia County, Virginia Militia by Governor Patrick Henry on the 12th day of March, 1776, and was promoted and commissioned Major of Militia by Governor Benjamin Harrison on the 12th day of November, 1781. The original Commissions in the Militia, the discharge from the Colonial Regiment, a pay roll, and provision returns of his Company are still in the possession of his descendants.

He was frequently in active service during the war of the Revolution against the Indian Tribes, the allies of Great Britain; was in command of Prickett's Fort on the Monongahela River in the year 1777, and was engaged in the duties of an officer of Militia from 1776 until the close of the War.

Under the Act of the Assembly of Virginia passed in May, 1777, he was one of the officials selected to administer an oath to the male inhabitants of Monongalia County over the age of sixteen years, renouncing allegiance to King George the Third and swearing allegiance to the Commonwealth of Virginia. He was Sheriff of Monongalia County in 1783 and was appointed Principal Surveyor of Harrison County, Virginia, in 1784, and held that office until his death in 1821.

[Dec. 1st 1891.]

Hart, Charles Matthew

Great grand-son of John Hart, who was born in 1711, at Stonington, Connecticut, and died at Hopewell, New Jersey, in 1779.

He was the son of Captain Edward Hart who removed to New Jersey in 1712, and participated in the Colonial Wars against the French and Indians.

John Hart was chosen a member of the Colonial Assembly of New Jersey in 1761, and was annually elected a member of that body until 1772.

In 1774 he was a member of the Convention called the Provincial Congress which met at New Brunswick, New Jersey, and in 1776 deposed Governor Franklin, the Colonial Governor, and established a new State Government.

He was a member of the Committee of Safety organized by that Body. In the same year he was one of the five delegates chosen to represent New Jersey in the Continental Congress, and voted for and signed the Declaration of Independence, July 4th, 1776.

In the same month he was elected to the Legislature of New Jersey, and was Speaker of that body, a position he held until his death in 1779.

The State of New Jersey erected to the memory of John Hart a monument, in the church-yard at Hopewell, N. J., which ground he had presented to the Baptists.

[Revised 1894.]

* The Monongahela Valley during the Revolution.

One hundred and twenty years ago the "embattled farmers" stood at Lexington and Concord, and "fired the shot heard round the world." Within a month these war-like sounds had floated over the mountain wall, and had penetrated the vast forest that covered the Valley of the Monongahela. Here the territory was in dispute between Virginia and Pennsylvania; the scanty population were divided in their allegiance; the one part claiming a portion of the territory as belonging to the District of West Augusta, the other claimed it for the County of Westmoreland, Pa. It was while this local struggle was at its height, and which threatened to culminate in bloodshed, that the opening thunders of the Revolution penetrated these woods, arousing in the breasts of the hunter and settler, the noble sentiments of patriotism. The warring factions forgot their local struggle, and both the partizans of Virginia and Pennsylvania met on the same day, May 16, 1775, the one at Ft. Pitt, the other at Hanna's Town, and pledged their support to the Continental Congress in men and arms, against the oppressions of the mother country.

These men were stirred by a patriotism deep and true; they were surrounded by a savage foe fiercer than the wild beasts of the forests; in their poor plight they were now about to confront the armies of the most powerful nation of the earth; yet they cheerfully cast their lot for their country, yielding all to her and daring all, for the right.

* Delivered at the first annual meeting of the Society held in Fairmont, W. Va. April 5th, 1895, in response to the toast "The Monongahela Valley during the Revolution," by Prof. JOHN GEORGE GILLINGS.

They had been trained in the hardy school of the forest and there were men among them who had fought by the side of Washington on Braddock's field: others of them had been compelled to stand, with rifle in hand, in defense of their homes against their savage foes.

They now enlisted in the cause of freedom, consecrating themselves to privation, toil, danger and death; and for twenty years thereafter this beautiful valley of the Monongahela knew no peace.

As early as June, 1775, men were recruited at Red Stone Old Fort, for Cresap's Maryland Company, to serve in the regular Continental army. In the fall of the same year Gen. Crawford raised the 7th Regiment of Virginia troops, in the District of West Augusta.

These men left their forest homes exposed to incursion of the savages, and fought under Washington at the battles of Long Island and Trenton. They were finally transferred to the Western Department, and performed garrison duty at Ft. Pitt.

The 8th Regiment of Pennsylvania, 684 strong, which served in the Revolutionary army, was recruited in the Valley of the Monongahela.

Gen. Crawford, who was a personal friend of Washington, and had been his surveyor and companion on his western excursions, now raised in West Augusta another regiment, the 13th Virginia, which he commanded, and which served entirely in the west, and did duty in detachments at Ft. Pitt, Ft. McIntosh, and in the Ohio and Allegheny valleys.

In the year 1772, Col. Evans, the Lieutenant of Monongalia county, had only 300 men to guard 80 miles of frontier. In that year Gov. Harrison, of Virginia, sent out a company of militia from Hampshire to assist Monongalia in her defense against the savages.

It were a long story to recount the many deeds of prow ess performed by the Wetzels, Morgans, Zanes, and then compatriots during the course of the Indian wars in West Augusta. For long after the battle flag of England had been furled in the East, the tomahawk and scalping-knife of her red allies were doing the work of death on the Virginia border, and here, the red cross of St. George floated for the last time in a battle of the Revolution.

The patriots of West Augusta well deserved the encomium passed upon them—when in a dark and trying hour of the Revolution, Washington said:

“Leave me but a banner to plant on the hills of Augusta, and I will rally round me the men who will lift our bleeding country from the dust and set her free.”

Let us remember the deeds our grandsires wrought,
 Their struggles, through privation, hunger and cold
 When in Freedom's cause they fought
 “In the days that tried men's souls.”
 For on this, our border land—
 Where the tomahawk and scalping-knife,
 With the red hosts of England's band,
 Joined in the stern, unequal strife—
 Our grandsires made as bold a stand
 As ever did men, for their native land.
